بسم الله الرحمن الرحيم

Hi my good people here's a word of encouragement today and an insight.

Every trader has tough days. It's a good idea not to lose more money in a single bad day than you typically make on a good day.

If you usually make between $10-$20 or $35 and above when things go well, try not to lose much more than that when things are tough. It's important to stay in control of your losses.

When you have a big loss, it's easy to feel a mix of emotions, like anger, frustration, and self-doubt. After a big setback, it's hard to make wise trading decisions. There's no need to rush to try and make up for the loss.

Take your time and stay calm. Today might not be the best day to try to recover. Stay strong and keep a clear head 👍

A mentor is someone you respect and who can help guide you in trading, and you don't always have to pay for their advice.

Having a mentor can be really helpful and save you from a lot of stress. Your mentor can share their experiences, give you helpful advice you won't find in books, and be there for you when trading is tough.

Try connecting with people who are more skilled than you are, this is the best way to get better. Find and stick with him/her and grow in your unique ways.

Have a great Day 👍
